Less dramatic cuts in other rounds plus there are always two people that got stuck in a gnarly semi hear that should of deserved being in the finals!

But add a extra round so that its not a 18 man semi final, could make it a 12 or even a 9 man semi. Just so that the cut isn't so aggressive. Plus the 2 run format is what gets the best riding out of us athletes, so we can put on a better show for the crowd.

16 to semis. 4 heats of 4 to 8 man final

4/13/2016 5:41 PM View respondent's answers

Or less than 12. Other kids want the chance to get to the top.

I would like to have 16riders then goes 4heats of 4 top 2make it through the final. 8mans final.

cut to 16 riders. Then 4 heats of 4 top 2 go to an 8 man finals

4/12/2016 6:23 PM View respondent's answers

I think cutting to 16 riders in the semis and then to 8 for finals

4/12/2016 6:06 PM View respondent's answers

12 riders. If it is only possible to have 4 rounds per event I think we could spread it out more so there are no dramatic cuts. But if there is no time to add another round, then definitely 12!

Yes and No. I'm torn
4/12/2016 6:23 PM View respondent's answers

If the given contest has qualifying, quarters, semis, and finals, I think everyone should ride qualifying. But the winner of every qualifying heat should skip a round and go straight to the semi. So there is no ranking advantage, its all how you compete in the rounds. Also gives the chance for different people to qualify into the semis rather than the same 6 people at each event. But if an event only has quarters, semis, finals. Then no, no one should get a buy.
